THE CELESTIAL SERVANT.

He is High Priced and Trustworthy as Well as Subtle.

At night your "boy" returns to Chinatown, where he sleeps, letting himself in the next morning with a latchkey, which, on hiring, you trustfully confide to him.
This may seem strange and imprudent to eastern housekeepers, thus leaving your house at the mercy of an unknown, characterless man, for of course they never have testimonials, but it is a trust rarely if ever abused, a fact which speaks favorably for the Celestial. Generally they demand and receive large wages. We had, however, one at the modest sum of $10 per month who was an excellent cook, excelling in laced and cake making, but with a truly execrable temper. He was always muttering and growling to himself as he went about his work. Besides cooking he had to set and wait upon the table, sweep the lower rooms—we attended to the bedrooms—and occasionally wash the windows. At times he would break out into what we supposed was intended for singing, but anything more harsh and un-musical I have never heard. Query, Can the Chinese sing?

What roused his anger more than anything was our being late for meals or people dropping in for lunch. If at such times we rang for more bread or cake, after a sufficiently lengthy interval, to impress upon us the fact of his displeasure and to ponder on our greediness, he would flounce in, scowl at us as he snatched up the plate, mutter very audibly to his mistress, "No make cake; too cheap; two dollars and a half," which was somewhat embarrassing for both hostess and guest.
Our patience eventually gave out, and we dismissed this amiable creature, who departed for once all smiles, with his wages and apron, leaving behind his latchkey and in all probability a description of the place, written where it would attract the notice of the newcomer, though invisible or at any rate unintelligible to us. This is a favorite practice of theirs and serves either to encourage or to warn away aplicants. If the latter, your path will be a thorny one for some time to come, and "boys" will prove many and fleeting, much to your wonder and perplexity. You will find yourself at very unequal odds when dealing with oriental subtlety and spite.—May Hoskin in Lippincott's.

To My Patrons:

It gives me much pleasure to announce that MR. M. R.
COUNTER, one of the most skilled watchmakers ever in these Islands, is now managing my repairing department. No watch is so complex in its mechanism but we can give perfect satisfaction in correcting the evils to which watches are heir. Watches are delicate things to handle. We guarantee that they will receive no injury at our hands and will leave our store in perfect repair.
Respectfully,
